Hashing and Probability of Collision

Problem D of Codeforces #395 required hashes of rooted trees. In this post I give some examples of good hashes, and then construct a good hash for rooted trees.

The most well-known hash in competitive programming is probably the rolling-hash of strings. The following problem but let's solve it using rolling hash anyway.

Problem 1. You are given two strings s, t of lengths N ($\leq 10^5$) that consist of lowercase letters. Determine if they are equal.

Let $\text{MOD} = 10^9 + 7$. Choose an integer r uniformly at random from the interval $[0, \text{MOD})$. Compute the sum of $r^i \cdot s_i$ is called the rolling hash of s . We can consider it as a polynomial of r , let's denote it as $S(r)$. Similarly, define $T(r)$. It happens when s and t are different strings (thus S and T are different polynomials), but unluckily $S(r) = T(r)$. Here Schwartz-Zippel lemma:

Let $P(x_1, \dots, x_k)$ be a non-zero (multi-variable) polynomial on a finite field F_{MOD} . If the variables are chosen uniformly at random, the probability that $P(x_1, \dots, x_k) = 0$ is at most D/MOD , where D is the total degree of the polynomial.

In the case of rolling hash, we are only interested in single-variable polynomials. From the lemma above, we can say collision probability is at most N/MOD ($\leq 1/10^4$). Thus I'd say this is a "good hash". My intuition tells that in practice probability is as small as $1/\text{MOD}$, but that looks at least very hard to prove. Let me give an interesting example that intuition is not always correct. In the lemma F_{MOD} must be a field, and MOD must be a prime. What happens if it's not?

Let's take $\text{MOD} = 2^{64}$ (this would simplify the implementation). It turns out that the rolling hash doesn't work well for a certain case if the modulo is 2^{64} . Detailed description Codeforces.

Problem 2. You are given two graphs G, H with N ($\leq 10^3$) vertices and M ($\leq 10^4$) edges. Determine if they are isomorphic.

For each vertex v in the graph and an integer d , define the level- d hash for v , $h(d, v)$. When $d = 0$, define $h(0, v) = 1$. Otherwise, let x_1, \dots, x_k be the sorted list of level- $(d-1)$ hashes of vertices adjacent to v , and define $h(d, v)$ as the sum of $x_i \cdot r^i$ modulo MOD . Compute the level- N hashes of the two graphs for each vertex, sort them, and compare them.

It looks very hard to find a test case against this hash. (Actually no - see Petr's comment below). However there's no theoretical guarantee under this hash and I think most people wouldn't use this as an intended solution of a problem in a contest (graph isomorphism is a well-known difficult problem). I'd say this is a "bad hash".

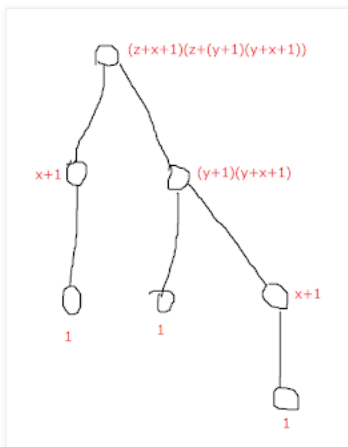

OK, now we want to construct a good hash for rooted trees. Before that, let's try an easier version. Hashes for (multi)sets.

Problem 3. You are given two (multi)sets $A = \{a_1, \dots, a_n\}$ and $B = \{b_1, \dots, b_n\}$. $n \leq 10^5$ and each element is in the interval $[0, \text{MOD})$. Determine if they are the same.

One possible solution is to sort the input and then compute the rolling hash of it. Can you find a linear-time hash? The solution is indeed very simple. Let's take a random integer r from interval $[0, \text{MOD})$, and compute the hash $(r+a_1)(r+a_2)\dots(r+a_n)$. This is a polynomial of r of degree n , so again from Schwartz-Zippel lemma, the collision probability is at most n/MOD .

Problem 4. You are given two rooted trees with n vertices. Determine if they are isomorphic.

Like previous examples, we assign a polynomial for a rooted tree, and evaluate the polynomial for random variables. However, unlike previous examples, this time we use multi-variable polynomials. We define the polynomial $P(G)$ for a rooted tree G as follows. If G is a single leaf, $P(G) = 1$. Otherwise, let d be the depth of the tree, k be the number of children of the root, and G_1, G_2, \dots, G_d be the subtrees corresponding to those children. Define $P(G) = (x_d + P(G_1))(x_d + P(G_2))\dots(x_d + P(G_k))$. See the picture for an example. (x_1 replaced with x, y, z).

This way we get a multi-variable polynomial over d variables of degree l , where l is the number of leaves in the tree. We can say that two polynomials that correspond to non-isomorphic trees are different (by using the uniqueness of factorization of the ring of polynomials). If we evaluate this polynomial for random variables, we get a good hash with collision probability at most l/MOD !

Awesome explanation!

For graph isomorphism, it's easy to break such hashing: take two non-isomorphic regular (all degrees the same) graphs.

Thank you for pointing out, I'll fix it.
Maybe computing hashes of graphs of this size is hard even in practice.

Hello, I am Theresa Williams After being in relationship with Anderson for years, he broke up with me, I did everything possible to bring him back but all was in vain, I was much because of the love I have for him, I begged him with everything, I made promises but he refused. I explained my problem to my friend and she suggested that I should a spell caster that could help me cast a spell to bring him back but I am the type that never believed in spell, I had no choice than to try it, I mailed the spell caster, and he no problem that everything will be okay before three days, that my ex will return to me before three days, he cast the spell and surprisingly in the second day, it was an called me, I was so surprised, I answered the call and all he said was that he was so sorry for everything that happened that he wanted me to return to him, that he loves me so happy and went to him that was how we started living together happily again. Since then, I have made promise that anybody I know that have a relationship problem, I will such person by referring him or her to the only real and powerful spell caster who helped me with my own problem. email: {drogunduspellcaster@gmail.com} you can email his assistance in your relationship or any other Case.

me with my problems – least of all my love problems, but I reached the point where I knew I needed some guidance, and I'm so glad I found this man called Dr. Sam I years would have thought I'd be writing a letter like this, but when I nearly lost Andrew in one of our stupid, fights (he broke up with me), I thought I had lost everything. I cr that he will never come back to me again. I read a testimony by a man called Taylor Borg about him saying that how Dr. Sam helps him to get back is EX wife within 48 ho him. He did a (Lover spell) for me. 48 hours later, my (Ex-Boyfriend) came to me and apologized for the wrongs he did and promise never to do it again. Ever since the returned back to normal and our love is now stronger that he can't do without being with me. I and my boyfriend are living together happily again. Dr. Sam is the best onlin is powerful and genuine. And when I was at my most desperate, he didn't take advantage of me. You performed a very good service for a person in true need. How to get your ex lover back & save your marriage fast "I suggest you read this."

I got a divorce from my husband when I was six months pregnant with my second child. We had been arguing and quarreling nonstop since the day our first child was conceived, and now i miss him anymore so he divorced me. And all these whiles, I have been trying all different means to get him back, I also tried some different spell casters here in the United States, but none of them could bring Richard back to me. It was only Dr. Unity who guaranteed me an urgent 28 hours spell casting, and he assured me that my husband will be with me again. I am writing to offer gratitude to you for keeping your promises, and for using your gifted and great powers to bring him back home. I was thrilled to know that you are specialized in reuniting Lovers: helping me through the worst times of my life, for being such a great spell caster, and for giving me a love spell that has brought me so much joy in my marriage. My husband is back to leave me again. If you doubt his ability, trust me. You should take a chance. It pays off in ways you could never even imagine. If you are there right now and you need a powerful spell to bring back your ex kindly contact Dr. Unity right now he is the only answer to restore your broken relationship or marriage. The occurrences in my marriage wasn't clear, I invested emotionally and I don't see the positive impacts. I prayed for a husband that could remind me of the good he sees in me, make me laugh and also boost my mood.

The introduction of spell to my hunt saved my marriage. Dr. Wakina looked at the happenings from a different angle before solving the puzzle. He totally handled the event like the emotional for me seeing us reach beyond the invisible boundaries in our marriage.

My husband is in support of this story, so I'm not compromising my integrity because the spell toss on us was a goodwill spell.

"Share your story to liberate a relationship" was the word said to me by Dr. Wakina after he successfully completed a unity spell that brought us back after 9 months and 4 days. His solution to my negative marital events via his email dr.wakinalovetemple@gmail.com. I bless the day I read the story that lead me to Dr. Wakina.
